HERITAGE TOUR

The heritage of the Rocks Estate is intimately twined with the history of Bethlehem as a tourist destination. Join Forest Society staff to explore the history of the property through a DVD and interpretive tour. See buildings that are on the national register of historic places, while learning about the colorful past of the people who made the Estate what it is today.

Rich in history, this tour will take you back in time. Original owner, John J. Glessner, who was part owner of International Harvester Corporation in Chicago, IL, built The Rocks Estate as an exceptional summer home and retreat for his family in 1882. An operating farm at that time, the estate was eventually expanded to 2,000 acres and included several farmsteads.

Now, 1,400 acres of this property are owned and protected by the Society for the Protection of NH Forests. Mr. Glessner was one of the original members of this non-profit organization which has protected over 1,000,000 acres of NH land.

Famous landscape architect of the time, Frederick Law Olmstead, a family friend and frequent visitor to the Glessner's, designed the stone walls and gardens of The Rocks Estate. Mr. Olmstead was the designer of Central Park in New York City.
